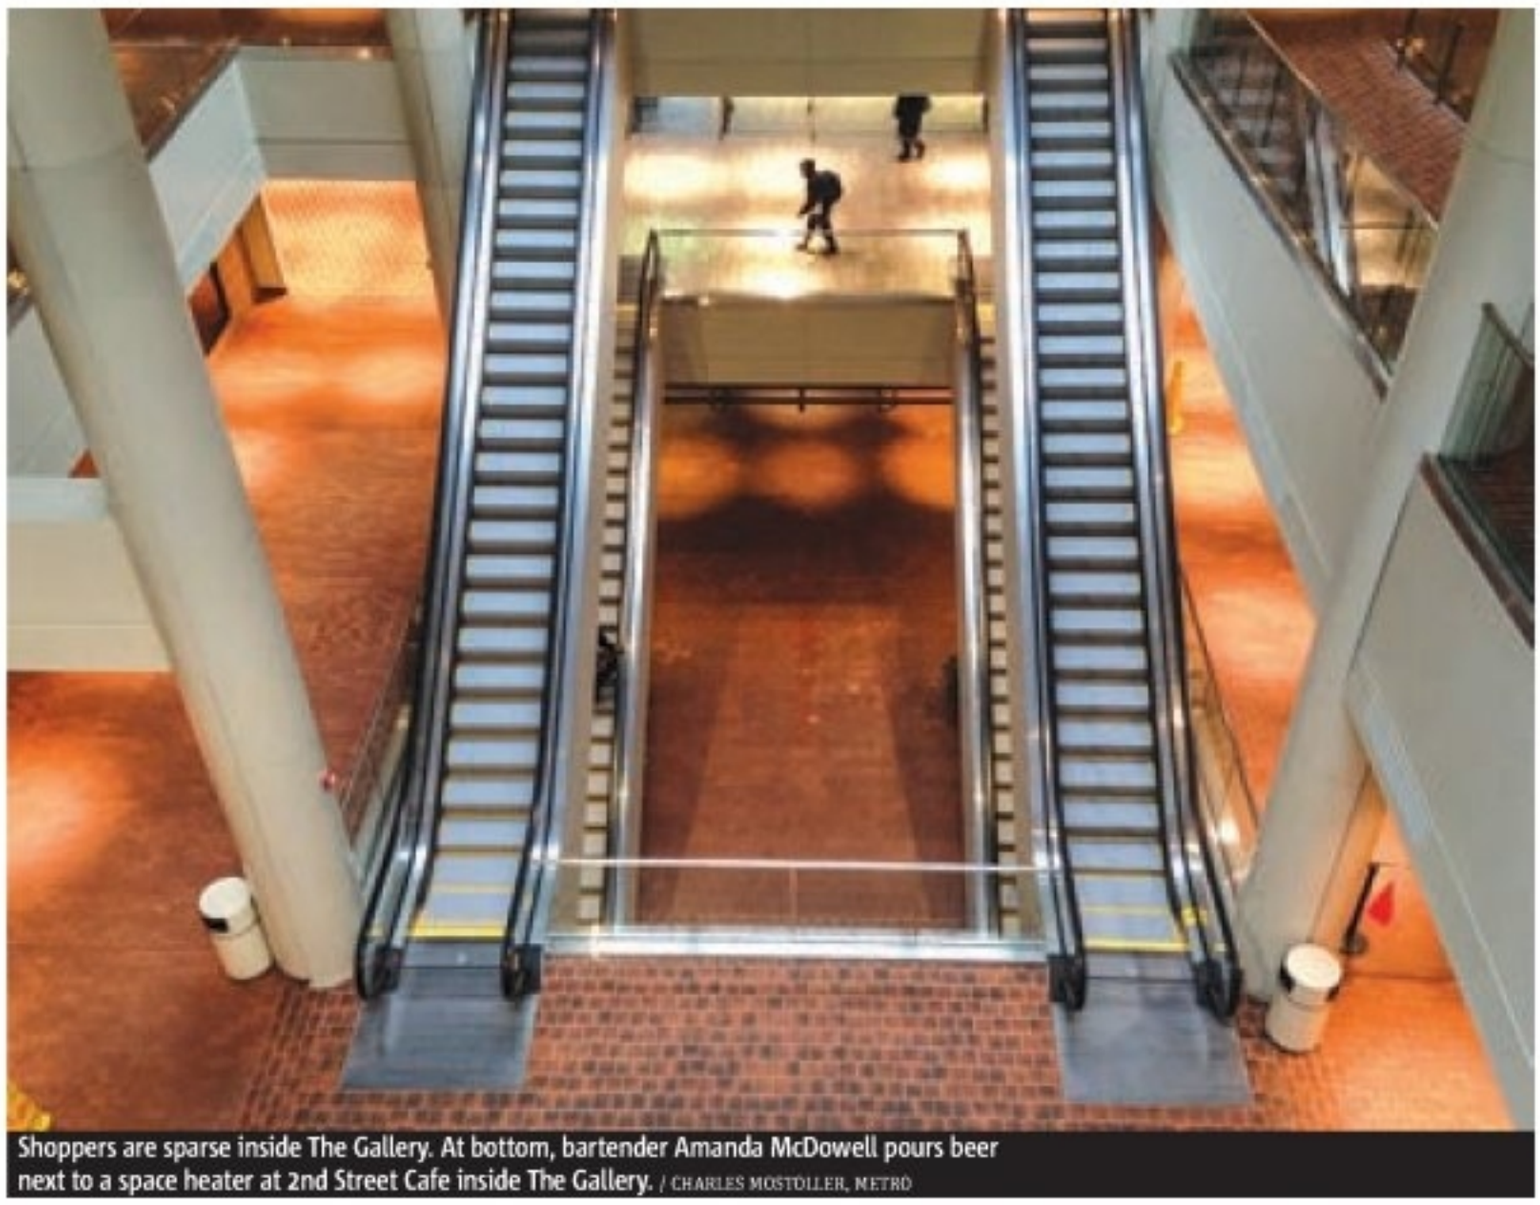
The Gallery's future has tenants on tinderhooks

Renovation. The promise of high-end shopping in downtown Philly has yet to be realized.



Shoppers are sparse inside The Gallery. At bottom, bartender Amanda McDowell pours beer next to a space heater at 2nd Street Cafe inside The Gallery. / CHARLES MOSTOLLER, METRO

When the owners of The Gallery announced plans in June to renovate the mall, they said they wanted to usher in a new era in upscale Philadelphia retail.

Eight months later, all but a handful of stores in the oldest half of the mall are closed. On the other half, entire floors are nearly vacant. Only a McDonald's is open in the food court. In the stores that remain, many employees don't know what the future holds.

"Officially, our last day is the 15th, but we heard from Starbucks that they are staying until the end of the month, so we are planning to stay until then," said Kaycie Plessas, whose father owns the 2nd Street Cafe. "Everything is hearsay. We have no idea what is going on."

The mall's owners haven't finalized plans.

"We're in the process of finalizing the details," said Heather Crowell, vice president for corporate communications and investor relations. "We expect to be making an announcement in the relatively near future."

The Pennsylvania Real Estate Investment Trust (PREIT) announced in June that it had sold a 50 percent stake in the mall for $106.8 million to the Macerich Company and that the two firms would partner to redevelop the property. PREIT credited Macerich's expertise in "dense, urban environments."

Workers at the mall believe that one half of the mall — the older part between 9th and 10th streets — will close sometime in March. But they aren't exactly sure because the dates they've heard have changed. They've also been told that when renovation is complete, another phase will begin in the newer portion of the mall, between 10th and 11th streets, known as Gallery II.

Crowell said that while they haven't quite finished the planning, it's not necessarily the case that the mall would wait for one part of the renovation to end before starting another.

One big question — what will happen to SEPTA and PATCO riders and their ability to use The Gallery to connect to regional rail lines? — remains unanswered.

SEPTA spokeswoman Jerri Williams said top officials from the transit agency met with PREIT, and left without clear plans as to what was going to happen.

The shutdown has been good for business at Giovanni's Pizza, which does brisk business with the office crowd.

"We're one of the last places serving food," said Jordan Doar, whose aunt owns the place.

History of The Gallery

The earliest phases of The Gallery were completed in 1977, and was hailed as a revolutionary concept: suburban-style retail in an urban environment.

- But in recent years it has seen a steady decline as ground zero for Philly shopping migrated to other parts of the city.
- The mall has hopes that the opening of fashionable discount department store Century 21 will pave the way for a revitalization.

Man sentenced to prison for killing K-9

John Rush, 22, was sentenced Tuesday to 17 to 44 years in prison for fatally stabbing a Pittsburgh police dog while officers were trying to arrest him, officials said.

Rush killed an 8-year-old German shepherd named Rocco in January 2014 in the basement of a building where he was hiding from Pittsburgh police who were seeking to arrest him on outstanding warrants, parole violation and failure to register as a sex offender, according to police.

Cornered in the basement, Rush stabbed the dog before he was subdued by officers, police said.

The dog died of spinal and kidney injuries at a veterinary clinic two days later.

Hundreds of people attended the dog's funeral and Pittsburgh Mayor Bill Peduto ordered city flags flown at half-staff in his honor. REUTERS

Three more pols charged in corruption sting, DA says

Corruption. Six Philly politicians have now been charged with corruption in a probe the attorney general dropped.

District Attorney Seth Williams announced Tuesday criminal charges against three more Philly Democrats implicated in a cash-for-favors sting executed by an undercover operative.

Now charged are state Reps. Louise Bishop and Michelle Brownlee, as well as former state Rep. Harold James — with evidence pegging Bishop as the ringleader of an attempt to pad the state House committee on privatizing liquor sales with friendly politicians between 2010 and 2012.

"By the end of the year, you will have built your stable," Bishop told an undercover operative, after he provided $1,500 to her, referring to plans to connect him with more politicians.

Bishop then introduced operative Tyron Ali to Brownlee and James, all in relation to the goal of filling the committee with politicians who could be influenced, Williams said.

James accepted $750 — provided to him in money orders delivered by Ali in a parking lot on Delaware Avenue, he admitted to investigators.

Brownlee admitted to accepting $2,000 in cash.

In 2014, ex-Traffic Court Judge Thomasine Tynes pleaded guilty to accepting a $2,000 Tiffany bracelet.

State Reps. Ronald G. Waters and Vanessa Lowery Brown acknowledged accepting illegal gifts, but haven't yet been convicted.

The Inquirer reported in 2014 that Attorney General Kathleen Kane dropped the probe, filed by then-Attorney General Tom Corbett, without filing criminal charges.

Comcast. Six months of free Internet offered in Philly

Comcast is giving away six months of free internet access to new, low-income subscribers in Philadelphia in order to boost participation in its much-criticized Internet Essentials program.

The program, which offers discounted Internet to households with at least one child who qualifies for free or reduced lunch, has struggled to sign up low income households for the $9.95 per month service, particularly in Philadelphia.

The cable and Internet giant says participation in Philadelphia has climbed to 15 percent of eligible families, which lags slightly behind the 17 percent rate nationally. Philadelphia ranks ninth nationally for cities Comcast serves.

Comcast says that between June and February, the program signed on more new subscribers than ever before.

Though 52 percent of low-income households have hard-wired Internet access, they lag behind the population as a whole.

Comcast has faced significant criticism over the last year as it has tried to pass regulatory approval for a merger with Time Warner Cable over affordability of Internet access for the poor and its reputation for its indifference to customers.

To be eligible, families cannot be current Comcast subscribers, and cannot owe money to Comcast in the past year.

Former detective killed in crash

Charles Permint Jr., a 74-year-old retired Philadelphia police officer, was killed on Saturday in a Delaware smash-up by an ex-con who was wanted by the law for violating parole.

An SUV driven by Rashai Harmon, 26, slammed into a car being driven by Permint's wife, Ludmilla, who told The News Journal that it was bitterly ironic a fugitive was involved, consider her late husband spent years netting bad guys.

Cops caught up with Harmon soon after the accident on Forest Road in Harbeson. They said they had earlier been chasing Harmon but called it off for fear of such a tragedy.

"He stopped this one last criminal from doing God knows what," the 60-year-old widow said of her husband, who was in the passenger seat. "And he did not suffer."

Jury in Boston sees blood-stained note in marathon bomb trial

Sense of submission. Defense lawyers argue that the older brother was the driving force behind the attacks.

Blood-stained note by Tsarnaev shown to jury. / DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Jurors in the trial on Tuesday of Boston Marathon bombing suspect Dzhokhar Tsarnaev got to see the blood-stained message that prosecutors say he wrote on the inside of a boat he was hiding in before his violent capture, explaining his reasoning for killing innocent people.

"We Muslims are one body you hurt one you hurt us all," the message read, citing what it said was aggression in Muslim lands. "I don't like killing innocent people it is forbidden in Islam, but due to said (…) it is allowed," the message read, with a word missing due to a bullet hole.

Boston Police Officer Todd Brown identified a photograph of the message, displayed to the jury on screens in U.S. District Court in Boston, showing bullet holes and blood dripping over the words.

Federal prosecutors contend that Tsarnaev was driven by an extremist view of Islam and a desire to strike back at the United States in revenge for military campaigns in Muslim-dominated countries.

NSA surveillance, such as what takes place at this facility is a matter of controversy. / GETTY IMAGES

Wikimedia, rights groups sue NSA over mass surveillance

Lawsuits. Others have challenged the bulk collection of telephone metadata and are pending in U.S. appeals courts.

The National Security Agency was sued on Tuesday by Wikimedia and other groups challenging one of its mass surveillance programs that they said violates Americans' privacy and makes individuals worldwide less likely to share sensitive information.

The lawsuit filed in federal court in Maryland, where the spy agency is based, said the NSA is violating U.S. constitutional protections and the law by tapping into high-capacity cables, switches and routers that move Internet traffic through the United States.

The case is a new potential legal front for privacy advocates who have challenged U.S. spying programs several times since 2013, when documents leaked by former NSA contractor Edward Snowden revealed the long reach of government surveillance.

The litigation announced on Tuesday takes on what is often called "upstream" collection because it happens along the so-called backbone of the Internet and away from individual users. REUTERS

FRED BEANS REPEATS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

Doylestown, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group located in Doylestown, PA, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, March 14th at 9:00AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community driving again.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations are selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships in Doylestown features new Ford, Lincoln, Mitsubishi, Dodge, Chrysler, Jeep, Hyundai, Nissan, Subaru, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, and GMC vehicles.

Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships' extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired for this sale at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $999, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interest."

Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that's right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of March 14th, after the close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships has $10 million in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less-than-perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive home a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first-time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations this Saturday, March 14th, at 9:00AM.

Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $999, will be posted no later than 8:00AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.*

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van, or sport utility vehicle, don't miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

For more information about this sale and directions to our locations, please visit us online at www.999sale.com or call 855-656-0699

*At least four vehicles on Fred Beans' lots will be sold for as low as $999 on March 14th, 2015. All offers to qualified buyers. Cannot be combined with other offers.

1 CIA sought to hack Apple iPhones from earliest days: The Intercept

CIA researchers have worked for nearly a decade to break the security protecting Apple phones and tablets, investigative news site The Intercept reported on Tuesday, citing documents obtained from NSA whistle-blower Edward Snowden.

The report cites top-secret U.S. documents that suggest U.S. government researchers had created a version of XCode, Apple's software application development tool, to create surveillance backdoors into programs distributed on Apple's App Store.

The Intercept has in the past published a number of reports from documents released by whistle-blower Snowden.

The site's editors include Glenn Greenwald, who won a Pulitzer Prize for his work in reporting on Snowden's revelations, and Oscar-winning documentary maker Laura Poitras.

It said the latest documents, which covered a period from 2006 to 2013, stop short of proving whether U.S. intelligence researchers had succeeded in breaking Apple's encryption coding, which secures user data and communications.

Efforts to break into Apple products by government security researchers started as early as 2006, a year before Apple introduced its first iPhone and continued through the launch of the iPad in 2010 and beyond, The Intercept said. REUTERS

2 ISIS video claims killing of 'Israeli spy' Musallam

A video posted online by Islamic State militants showed a boy killing Muhammad Musallam, an Israeli Arab accused by the group of having signed up as a jihadi to spy for Mossad, with a bullet to the head.

The video showed Musallam wearing an orange jumpsuit, talking about how he had been recruited and trained by the Israeli intelligence service.

After that, it showed Musallam being escorted to a field and executed by a boy, described by an older, French-speaking fighter as one of the "cubs of the caliphate". REUTERS

Obama announces changes for student loan repayment

President Barack Obama told students at Georgia Tech on Tuesday he wants to make the process of repaying student loans easier to understand and manage.

Obama signed a "student aid bill of rights" and spelled out an assortment of policy tweaks and projects to try to make it easier to pay back student loans.

More Russian tanks and equipment cross border

Russian tanks and heavy military equipment have crossed the Ukrainian border in the last few days in breach of a European-brokered cease-fire agreed to on Feb. 12, a senior U.S. State Department official said.

The comments by U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for Europe, Victoria Nuland, follow accusations by Ukraine and Western governments that Russia continues to send troops and weapons to support separatists in eastern Ukraine despite the cease-fire deal, a charge the Kremlin has denied.

Madison. Cyber attack hits police department after shooting of teen

Cyber attackers have compromised computer systems at the Madison, Wisconsin, Police Department in retaliation for the police shooting death of a 19-year-old unarmed black man in the Wisconsin capital, a police spokesman said on Tuesday.

The cyber attack appears to be continuing and could be hitting other city and county websites, said police spokesman Joel DeSpain.

The attack was thought to be initiated by Anonymous, an international network of activist computer hackers, in response to the fatal shooting of Tony Robinson by a white Madison police officer on Friday.

Robinson's death has sparked outrage and protests reminiscent of those seen in Ferguson, Missouri, and other cities across the nation after the August police shooting of Michael Brown, 18, an unarmed African-American, by a white Ferguson police officer.

The attack was discovered Monday when police officers found "intermittent connectivity issues" that escalated to complete outages with their computer systems, DeSpain said.

Robinson was shot Friday evening after Officer Matt Kenny responded to calls about a man dodging cars in traffic who had allegedly battered another person, according to police officials. REUTERS

1 'Zoolander 2' is actually happening

The obvious highlight of Paris Fashion Week so far? The sight of veteran male model — and signature look Blue Steel innovator — Derek Zoolander's triumphant return to the runway for Valentino, sporting a custom Night Butterflies brocade suit and overcoat. OK, not really. But Ben Stiller and Owen Wilson did make a surprise appearance in Paris, using the catwalk as a means to cleverly announce that a sequel to the 2001 comedy "Zoolander" is officially happening. The long-awaited follow-up has been talked up for years, with Stiller discussing plot ideas in interviews as far back as 2010, but it finally has a release date: February 16, 2016.

'Mockingjay — Part 1' gets an Honest Trailer

There's still one more "Hunger Games" movie to go, but first, why don't we lovingly poke some holes in the penultimate installment? Screen Junkies gives "The Hunger Games: Mockingjay — Part 1" the Honest Trailer treatment, and they don't pull any punches, detailing all the ways filmmakers stretch "half a short book" to fill an entire movie. And that's not all. "One of the most talented actresses is squandered in a role that has her put on a frumpy jumpsuit and make two hours' worth of cry-face."

2 Madonna's daughter: 'Mom, stop it!'

So what's it like to be the 18-year-old daughter of an iconic sex symbol? Pretty awkward. Madonna admits to Carson Daly during a "Today" show interview that oldest daughter Lourdes isn't dealing too well with some of mom's racier material. "At this point, Rocco doesn't care. It just goes over his head. He's like, 'Oh, mom. Mom's being mom,'" Madonna explains. "The other little kids [aren't] really — they're not tuned into that frequency yet. And [Lourdes] is horrified by all of it. She just wants me to be her mom."

That's one request Madonna has been taking very seriously now that Lourdes is off at the University of Michigan as a freshman. "I'm very worried. 'Are you getting enough sleep? Are you eating right?'" Madonna admits. "I set up a humidifier in her room with eucalyptus oil. I was worried she didn't have enough towels, Q-tips, you know."

3 Mia Goth looking to make an honest nut-job of Shia LaBeouf

Apparently Shia LaBeouf's new rattail isn't that much of a turn-off, because if model Mia Goth's new jewelry is any indication, she's planning to marry the "Fury" actor. Goth was spotted out and about in Los Angeles with LaBeouf fingers of one hand entwined with his, while the other sported a pretty impressive diamond. And yes, it was on that finger.

Maybe love does conquer all?

Binge-watching etiquette from the stars who live it

Don't expect Spacey or Wright to start sharing any "House of Cards" secrets. / DAVID GIESBRECHT

If you think Kevin Spacey is going to tell you anything about the new season of "House of Cards," think again. Efforts to tease hints out of him are met with, "Nice try." It's all part of his binge-watching philosophy.

"I have this policy about this, which is that I won't discuss any plot points or anything that happens in any season. I haven't ever, for three years. It's one of the most satisfying parts about being in the show, because I can't be the spoiler-in-chief," says Spacey.

We pressed Spacey on this. Surely there comes a point when it's OK to talk about past seasons?

"It's never OK. It never will be OK," says Spacey firmly.

But what about some of your other fave Netflix stars? We asked around.

Robin Wright

"You are building a 13-hour film every season," she says. "It's a novel, and you, the public, can pick it up where you want, read as many chapters as you want, in whatever format, and put it down for six months and return to it."

Taylor Schilling

"House of Cards" is all about secrets, so it seems natural that the actors would be secretive. What about over on prison drama "Orange Is the New Black"?

"In terms of speaking about the show, I concur with my fellow Netflix friend," says Taylor Schilling of "Orange Is the New Black," breaking all of our hearts a little. "I don't really ever feel like there's an appropriate time to start to talk about things, because I so respect the experience that people have with these shows, and I feel like it's a very intimate experience. I love the idea that people are just starting to get to know the world we've created."

"Orange Is the New Black" stars are just as secretive as the ones on "House of Cards." / JOJO WHILDEN

Plot twist

Spoiler-free zone

Even within the Netflix family, it's verboten to get too detailed about plot points. Regarding a question about developments on "House of Cards," Schilling says, "It was funny. I had like a visceral reaction when I heard that question, like, 'Please do not tell me.' I'm savoring those episodes of 'House of Cards' right now."

And Aziz Ansari, who has a new Netflix comedy special, "Live at Madison Square Garden," panicked as soon as people started asking who had watched the new season of "House of Cards." "Not all of it, hush! How has everyone seen everything?!" We know how you feel, Aziz.

Quoted

"On our show, we have an out, because it's Marvel, and I'm not allowed to talk about it."
Vincent D'Onofrio, Wilson Fisk on "Daredevil"

Sheppard's U.S. debut album "Bombs Away" came out yesterday.
PROVIDED

It may seem like Australian band Sheppard came out of nowhere with their massive hit "Geronimo" (the song has been in the Top 20 in over 20 countries and has been streamed over 85 million times on Spotify), but in actuality, it's been quite a long haul.

"We wrote 'Geronimo' a year and a half ago now," band member George Sheppard tells us. "It had its own legs in Australia and Europe, and now the U.S. is finally coming on board. It definitely doesn't feel like it came out of nowhere for us!"

We caught up with Sheppard to talk more about the band's debut U.S. album, "Bombs Away," (out yesterday) and their North American tour with Meghan Trainor.

Big risks, big payoffs

"Geronimo" is about taking a risk in a relationship by starting things up again with an ex, but Sheppard says it has an underlying theme of not being afraid to take chances. "Without risks, there's no reward, so make that leap of faith," he says. "Being in a band in itself is taking a risk," Sheppard says. "There are no guarantees or a safety net. It's pretty risky, but we did it anyway."

For his part, Sheppard never really had a plan B. "I cannot explain to you how much I loathed being at university," he says.

Learning on the road

He dropped out to pursue music and never looked back. "It's given me the opportunity to truly express myself, see the world and meet all sorts of different people who are at the top of their field," he says. "Sitting in the classroom and reading lines of text, you can only learn so much, but it's when you get out there in the world and really experience it for yourself; that's the real classroom. And that applies to any vocation."

Happy sad songs

That said, the next lessons the band will learn will be on the road with tour buddy Meghan Trainor. Like Trainor, the band is known for their playful, upbeat songs, but don't be fooled by the ever-present happy melodies. Some of the lyrics off the new album are actually quite sad. "We wrote a song called 'Let Me Down Easy,' which kind of started that juxtaposition of lyrics and music. We found it interesting but didn't really think of a conscious decision to do that. But that seems to be what happens," Sheppard explains. Whether they're singing about breakups or new relationships, it's still bound to be one heck of a party. EMILY LAURENCE

Clever ways to hide your electronics

Wires and routers and speakers – oh, my! If your living room is cluttered with electronic eyesores, you may want to perk up. We've tracked down three DIY experts who have some awesome ways of passing off gadgets as cute pieces of home decor. Here are three design hacks for disguising technology. MARIANNE HAYES

Slip TV wires behind the wall

ISTOCK

If you live in a smaller space, mounting your flat-screen on the wall is great. The only problem is the dangly tapestry of unsightly wires. Diane Henkler from In My Own Style (Inmyownstyle.com) has the perfect solution — tuck them away within the wall.

This project seems intimidating, but Henkler assures that it's actually easier than it seems.

Turn speakers into pieces of art

PROVIDED

If you're into customized decor, this speaker-hiding project is definitely for you. The idea is to transform your speakers into art pieces that naturally blend in with the rest of your space — whether it's kitschy, modern or somewhere in between.

"You can vary the sizes, pick out cool fabrics and get crafty with the frame designs and colors," says Farm Fresh Therapy's Chelsea Mohrman, who brought this project to life. (Farmfreshtherapy.com)

According to Mohrman, this DIY is a little tricky but definitely well worth it. It involves deconstructing the speakers then putting them back together using framed fabric. Check our her site for full instructions.

Use decorative boxes

Even if you have wireless equipment, a collection of blinking routers and bulky modems is the last thing you want to showcase. Kerry Kobe over at Sweet Sanity Designs (Sweetsanitydesigns.com) recommends hiding these accessories in decorative boxes.

"Life is so hectic that I'm drawn to making spaces organized, balanced and serene, but technology junk never seems to fit into that look," says Kobe.

Her fix: carefully cut out an opening in the back of a stylish box to feed any wires and cables through to the back of your TV stand. Put the top back on and — voila!

We've made the Daylight Saving Time switch, which means spring is officially in the forecast. As the last of the snow melts, city parks are taking advantage of everyone's itch to get outside with a lineup of March events.

1 Get crafty at Sister Cities Park. Bring the kids to the Logan Square Cafe in Sister Cities Park for Crafternoon, with nature-inspired art projects hosted by Parks & Recreation. It's for all ages and free. Tuesdays, 2:30 to 3 p.m., 18th Street and Ben Franklin Pkwy.

2 Bring out your inner artist at Bartram's Garden. Grab a sketchpad and head to the country's oldest botanical garden for a Sketching in the Field workshop. And don't worry if you haven't drawn since grade school — beginners are welcome. March 22, 1 to 3 p.m., Lindbergh Blvd. and S. 54th St., $18, RSVP at gardensketching.bpt.me

3 Exercise at Dilworth Park. Take your workout outside with this weekly boot camp run by a series of trainers. Next up on March 17 is City Fit Girls, who keep you moving with a combo of cardio, high intensity interval training and body weight training. It's free. Tuesdays, 6 to 7 p.m., the west side of City Hall

4 Buy fresh and local at Fitler Square. Unlike most farmers markets, the one at Fitler Square is open year-round. It's run by the Food Trust, a nonprofit whose goal is to make sure everyone can get affordable, healthy food — the same folks who bring us the Night Market food truck extravaganzas. Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., 23rd and Pine streets

5 Run in Fairmount Park. Follow a six-mile trail in West Fairmount Park though the Belmont Plateau and Chamounix trails. The run is led by Fix Your Run or West Philly Runners, depending on the date. March 14, March 22 and March 28, 9 to 11:30 a.m., Free for Fairmount Park Conservancy members, $10 for non-members, meet at the Car Barn parking lot on Montgomery Drive, www.fairmountpark.ticketleap.com

‘Swim in the Swanepoel’

Denim. Model Candice Swanepoel collaborates on a new collection for Mother.

Candice Swanepoel, the Victoria’s Secret pin-up, has designed her first-ever ’90s-inspired capsule collection — Candice Swanepoel + Mother — for the L.A.-based fashion house, including shorts, high-waisted bleached jeans and a cheeky top emblazoned with “I Want To Swim In The Swanepoel.” That’ll get the boys going. The 26-year-old South African model tells us why she (literally) put her name on the limited edition looks, which will in part help fund the pediatric HIV charity mothers-2mothers.

Why did you decide to collaborate with Mother?
I knew it was the perfect partnership because I could not only try my hand at designing my own line and learn what it takes but also help a great cause at the same time.

What is your favorite piece in the collection?
The Stunner in Hijacking the Runway. It’s a high-rise rigid denim that molds to your body. I love to wear it with a white button-down.

What was your inspiration?
I drew inspiration from the off-duty styles of supermodels from the ’90s. I was especially influenced by Cindy Crawford’s iconic Pepsi campaign where she’s wearing short shorts.

Giving back

Tell us about the charity aspect.
Being South African, I’ve seen the devastation that HIV/AIDS has caused my country and the whole of Africa. Through my collaboration with Mother, I am so grateful that I can raise awareness about this and support the organization, mothers2mothers, which is saving lives and empowering pregnant women and mothers. I hope everyone will support our efforts and make a ton of money for this amazing organization, and, in doing so, help us save lives.

Treatment

Desensitization

An allergic reaction is the immune system working against a foreign substance that it sees as a threat, producing a violent physical reaction to get rid of it, and there are no easy treatment options.

"For people who suffer from certain allergies, we're actually able to, in a sense, desensitize them so they stop being as allergic and almost effectively cure their allergy," Parikh says.

How does desensitization work? "The way we desensitize people is giving small doses of an allergen, very safely and in gradual increments, until the immune system no longer recognizes it as something that it doesn't like," Parikh explains, "and the immune system becomes tolerant of it."

Harshing the buzz

As the campaign to legalize marijuana has gained traction, some unexpected side effects have cropped up. Among them is a new study out of Texas about the effects of marijuana that could make the road to legalization a little less smooth.

The Wilford Hall Ambulatory Surgical Center in San Antonio is raising the alarm about a growing number of cases involving allergic reactions to cannabis. The study calls the allergy "unconventional" and emphasizes the potential public health concerns as more states move toward legalization.

"You can be allergic to anything — that's the nature of how allergies are — but now that more states are legalizing marijuana, it's coming to the forefront," says Dr. Purvi Parikh, of the Allergy & Asthma Network and NYU Langone Medical Center. "It's not that the allergy is new, but it's now being more recognized."

The allergen is the plant itself, called cannabis sativa. Symptoms can mimic those of hay fever and include itchy eyes and stuffy nose, trigger asthma attacks and even severe reactions like anaphylactic shock. "It [can be acquired] through inhalation, through touching it, handling it, breathing it in and ingestion," she notes. "That's what makes it a lit-

But not handling, smoking or eating marijuana may not be enough, she says. Cannabis plants produce pollen that could spread more widely if it is grown commercially.

"It's a unique type of allergen because it's something that you know is inhaled and can also be [acquired] through secondhand smoke," she says. "I've seen one patient that suffered from very bad breathing problems, and she herself didn't smoke marijuana but all of her neighbors around her did. She was getting a lot of exposure through heating vents and air ducts."

Parikh doesn't know of any data on how common marijuana allergies are in the U.S. "Right now what I do know is that it's pretty rare and rarely reported," she says, whether that's because people were hesitant to tell a doctor about using the drug when it was illegal, or it simply hadn't been used by a wide enough segment of the population to establish its prevalence.

She expects to see more cases as people feel less of a risk reporting it, and hopes that concern for this small but severely affected segment of the population is considered as marijuana becomes more accepted. "The biggest implication is that it's one of the few allergens that puts other people at risk, too," she says.

USED CARS $ as low as 999

FRED BEANS REPEATS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

West Chester, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, March 14th at 9:00AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community driving again.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, Fred Beans Ford Lincoln of West Chester is selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, Fred Beans Ford Lincoln of West Chester has a great selection of new Fords and Lincolns.

Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships' extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired for this sale at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $999, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interest."

Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that's right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of March 14th, after the close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships has $10 million in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less-than-perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive home a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first-time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at Fred Beans Ford Lincoln of West Chester this Saturday, March 14th, at 9:00AM.

Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $999, will be posted no later than 8:00AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis. The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.*

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van, or sport utility vehicle, don't miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

Letters to the editor

Violence not a race thing

Re: 'Women rally for living wage' (Metro.us) I have always been a girl for stopping violence against women and children all my life. I do appreciate the article. However, in regards to the Selma connection to violence against women: I would like to add there is no comparison. Selma activists have their own day and acknowledgement. We girls and women should have our own. Violence toward women is not just based on skin color. Violence towards women affects everyone. Women who have suffered from violence should have their own day and night of remembrance without any group taking responsibility for it. I speak from a woman of not just domestic abuse but world violence too.

TANYA RENAY MARINELLI

Article was aimed at men

Re: 'The stars of feminism are not men!' (Metro, March 6-8) I think my fellow letter writers are overreacting over Jenna Busch's innocent piece on male feminist supporters. I think the article was aimed at men, as if to say, "See, it's cool to be a feminist, like Aziz Ansari." That's all. No deep hidden message.

Around the NFL

As expected, Tuesday was a busy afternoon in the NFL.

- In Eagles-related news, the Seahawks signed Cary Williams to replace Byron Maxwell at cornerback.
- After dropping out of a verbal deal with the Eagles, RB Frank Gore is expected to sign with Indianapolis.
- Former Eagles pass-rusher Trent Cole is also expected to sign with the Colts.
- The Ravens traded NT Haloti Ngata to the Lions for two picks.
- Former Ravens wide receiver Torrey Smith reached a five-year agreement to play in San Francisco, according to reports.
- ESPN's Adam Caplan reported that the Eagles and DeMarco Murray have mutual interest, with the Cowboys, Raiders and Jaguars as other likely destinations.

Eagles flip Foles for Bradford

NFL. Chip Kelly continues to pursue his vision for the Eagles, swapping Nick Foles for the Rams' Sam Bradford.

Several NFL sources have confirmed that the Eagles, who already confused fans with their deal to re-sign Mark Sanchez earlier this week, agreed to swap Nick Foles for Sam Bradford just after the new NFL season started Tuesday at 4 p.m.

In a statement released by the Eagles, the team announced it was sending Foles, a fourth-round draft pick in 2015 and a second-round pick in 2016 to the St. Louis Rams in exchange for Bradford and the Rams fifth-round pick in 2015.

If Sam Bradford doesn't start at least eight games for the Eagles, they get a fourth-rounder and if he gets reinjured they get a pick in the third round.

Or in other words, the Eagles part with some valuable picks, badly limiting their assets to trade up and go after Marcus Mariota in the draft.

It appears Chip Kelly cites Sam Bradford, 28, as his quarterback of the future. Clearly the Rams value Foles above Bradford.

After bursting onto the scene and appearing to be a surefire franchise quarterback in St. Louis, Bradford suffered two torn ACLs in recent seasons, putting his future in doubt.

Foles missed the second half of the 2014 season after putting up decent numbers during the Birds' first eight games. In 2013, he made the Pro Bowl after throwing 27 touchdowns and just two interceptions.

Bradford is in the final year of his contract. Scheduled to make just about $13 million this season while Foles will make just over half a million on the last year of his rookie-deal. His cap hit in 2015 is $16.9 million, making it unlikely Bradford can be cut and making him undesirable to be a part of another trade.

Saints trade Graham

Less than a year after Jimmy Graham signed a monster extension to play tight end in New Orleans, the Saints reportedly traded him to the Seahawks on Tuesday. The Saints acquire center Max Unger and a first-round pick, parting with a fourth-round pick.

6 Best Philly teams never to win a championship

Philadelphia is currently in a lull. With the Flyers looking less and less like a playoff squad, the Phillies expected to lose possibly 100 games and the Eagles seemingly in chaos, it's an interesting time to be a fan in the area. So it's bad. No one would argue otherwise. But would a fan rather experience heartbreak and a close call or a rebuild?

The four current teams are looking toward the future, challenging fans to ponder who will write the next meaningful chapter in our historic sports ledger. But there were several titles that almost were and then suddenly weren't. There were also teams ingrained in our collective sports memory but without a banner in the Wells Fargo Center, Lincoln Financial Field or Citizen's Bank Park.

While suffering through these lean times, lets look back at some of the city's best teams never to win a championship.

1993 Phillies

(97-65, lost World Series in six games to Blue Jays)

They were picked to finish last, and they finished first. The 1993 Phillies held the NL East lead every single day of the season and earned Philly's affection thanks to their shaggy appearance and hard-nosed style of play.

The Phillies beat the Braves in six games to reach the World Series but fell into a 3-1 deficit in games to the Blue Jays. In a memorable Game 5, the Phillies made it a series again when Schilling shut down the Toronto offense allowing just five hits in a 2-0 shutout win.

Two days later, with confidence and a one-run lead, Mitch Williams took the mound and relented a three-run homer to Joe Carter that broke Philly's heart and gave the Blue Jays the first of back-to-back championships. The Phillies wouldn't return to the playoffs for 14 seasons.

1997 Flyers

(45-24-13, Swept in Stanley Cup Finals by Red Wings)

Led by 50 goals and 47 assists from LeClair and 31 wins from veteran goalie Ron Hextall, the Flyers' high-powered offense tore through NHL defenses.

They appeared like they would tear through the playoffs as well, beating the Penguins, Sabres and Rangers in succession all by margins of 4-to-1. But the Red Wings awaited in the Stanley Cup Finals and dominated Philadelphia in nearly every aspect of the game. They would return next to the finals in 2010 when they lost to the Blackhawks in six games.

2004 Eagles

(13-3, lost Super Bowl XXXIX to the Patriots)

After three-straight NFC title game losses, the Birds inked Owens and Kearse and breezed through the regular season and first two rounds of playoffs. They beat the Vikings and Michael Vick's Falcons in the NFC title game en route to the Super Bowl in Jacksonville, where they would face a budding dynasty in the Patriots, Bill Belichick and Tom Brady. As everyone recalls, Philly cut a 24-14 deficit to just three points on an urgency-lacking drive that saw McNabb find Greg Lewis for a 30-yard touchdown, but with 46 seconds left, they weren't able to go the length of the field to get a game-tying field goal.

The next 3

4 1987 Flyers (Lost Stanley Cup Finals in 7 games)
After losing to the Oilers in five games in 1985, rookie goalie Hextall helped lead the team to a rematch two years later. They closed a 2-0 gap to tie the playoff series at 3-games apiece, but they relented three straight scores (blowing an early 1-0 lead) to Edmonton, and despite 40 Hextall saves, they fell 3-1.

5 1980 Eagles (Lost Super Bowl XV to the Raiders)
The Eagles' first of two Super Bowl defeats, in 1980, when the Dick Vermeil-led Birds won their first NFC East title and dismantled the Vikings and Cowboys en route to the big game. In the Super Bowl, the Eagles fell behind by two touchdowns early and never recovered.

6 2001 76ers (Lost NBA Finals in 5 games to L.A.)
Allen Iverson's 48 points lifted the team over the Lakers in overtime in Game 1, but there weren't enough heroics to stop Kobe and Shaq.

Noel is a defensive juggernaut down low for the 76ers. / GETTY IMAGES

Noel filling void on 76ers roster, quickly becoming star player

NBA. Nerlens Noel could be a viable candidate to win the NBA's Rookie of the Year award.

Over the last few weeks, the most improved player on the Philadelphia 76ers has been quite obvious.

On Feb. 20 in a 106-95 loss to the Indiana Pacers, Noel became the first rookie in NBA history to register at least 12 points, nine rebounds, nine blocked shots and four steals in a game since blocks and steals were officially tracked in 1972-73.

Last Saturday in a 92-84 win over the high-flying Atlanta Hawks, Noel had 11 points, 17 rebounds and five steals for his second-straight double-double, his fourth in the last six games and his rookie-best 11th of the season.

Noel is the first rookie since Shaquille O'Neal on March 27, 1993, to post at least 11 points, 17 rebounds and five steals.

Aside from the impressive statistics, Noel continues to compete at an extremely high level.

The increased energy level has been noticeable.

"I do think he feels an added responsibility since the trade," Sixers coach Brett Brown said of the deadline deals involving Michael Carter-Williams and K.J. McDaniels. "He sees that we need him. We are trying to grow leaders and leadership groups with our young guys. I think the fact that we have played 63 games, and he has only missed four games — he is playing again. I would not have guessed that he would miss that few, given his body type and the rigors of the NBA.

"His leadership, his toughness and his improvement in his actual game … he's most definitely moving in the direction that we all hoped he would."

Noel refuses to put a ceiling on his development as a rookie. He's simply focusing on improving as much as possible.

"I think I could have a little more," Noel said of his statistics. "I feel good. I am 20 years old, and I am moving well. I am just looking to get better and better. I have a lot more work to do. I'm excited about the rest of the season and helping the team get better."

Noel played only 24 games as a freshman at Kentucky before suffering a torn ACL. After sitting out all of last season, he's been thrilled to be back on the court.

And the progress has been evident.

"Nerlens has so much talent, and he's going to be a terrific player," said Sixers veteran guard Jason Richardson. "He's so gifted in so many ways. We see it every day in practice. He's just beginning to show what he can do. I can't wait to see the finished product."

Bulls come to town

76ers back in action tonight

The 76ers, fresh off one of their best wins of the season over the first-place Hawks, continue a lengthy home-stand Wednesday at 7 p.m. when they host the Chicago Bulls.

The Bulls have been a force in the Midwest, amassing 39 wins, and are en route for a high playoff seed, but they are without point guard and former MVP Derek Rose.

NBA power rankings | by James Toscano

No. 1

Warriors (50-12)

I've watched the clip of Stephen Curry's ball-handling-to-3-pointer play against the Clippers about 100 times, and it gets prettier every time.

No. 2

Hawks (50-13)

I don't care that the Hawks sat a few players — you just don't lose to the Sixers and expect to stay at the top.

No. 3

Grizzlies (45-18)

Tough wins over the Rockets and Bulls on the road tell you this team is still a force to be reckoned with.

No. 4

Rockets (43-20)

Dwight Howard has resumed some on-court activities, though he's not close to a return. The Rockets look fine without him.

No. 5

Blazers (41-20)

Wes Matthews' season-ending ruptured Achilles is such a killer as he's one of the underrated and tougher guys in the NBA.

No. 6

Cavaliers (40-25)

Second place in the East, and it's hard to believe they'll move from that spot the way the teams around them are playing.

No. 7

Clippers (41-23)

Two losses over the last week to the Blazers and the Warriors, and you know the one to the Warriors really stings.

No. 8

Mavericks (41-23)

They're 5-5 over their last 10 games, and that about sums up how things are going for them with Rajon Rondo at point guard.

No. 9

Thunder (35-28)

Russell Westbrook might be the MVP. His last five games: 40.2 points, 11.2 assists, 12.4 boards. He's keeping the Thunder alive.

No. 10

Spurs (39-23)

Crazy stat: Tim Duncan did not hit a field goal in Sunday's win over the Bulls, the first game in his career that's happened.
